AFFIDAVITS PROVE NO NEGROES KEPT FROM VOTING HERE

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—A warning was given the house census committee today by Representative Tinkham, Republican of Massachusetts, that if congress in passing the reapportionment bill failed to reduce representation of states in which he charged the right of some citizens to suffrage was abridged, he would take the matter to the supreme court. Tinkham declared any educational qualifications or poll tax requirements was an abridgement of the right to vote. He said he was asking the committee to apply the fourteenth amendment to the entire nation.

WASHINGTON MUCH CONCERNED OVER CUBAN SITUATION

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Whether the United States will intervene again in Cuba depends largely upon General Crowder, who was sent to the island by President Wilson. Officials today indicated Crowder's trip was said not to be a move toward intervention but designed to make intervention unnecessary. State department officials, however, made no attempt to conceal their concern over the outcome of Cuba's plight if an early agreement isn't reached on the question as to who was elected president. Crowder's discussion with President Menocal will seek to settle this question, as well as Cuban financial problems.

If Mr. Burleson Could.
Judge Gary Knows.
Whiskey, Head Gunman.
Hoover Dines One Thousand.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

Foreign workers deceived by dishonest so-called Hungarian and other foreign banking concerns are robbed of their savings, and the process includes sending those savings out of this country.

If government would run its Post Office Savings Bank in a way to encourage small savings accounts, paying a fair rate of interest, instead of discouraging accounts in every possible way, the poor would not be thus robbed and millions of money would be kept working in America.

Postmaster Burleson, who has worked systematically and intelligently to make the post office useful to the people, would gladly improve postal savings bank regulations, but congress will not allow it.

The impression is that to manage the Postal Savings Bank generously would be harmful to banks privately managed. That is not true. Small savings accounts, properly encouraged become big and move up to the private bank.

Judge Gary, head of the big steel company, says that prosperity, to last a long time, is just ahead of us. This is only a hard times' "Summer shower."

The statement should brace up timid souls. Judge Gary, head of the big steel company, greatest industrial organization in the world, one of the most conservative and keen business men living, does not guess, or expose himself to ridicule by haphazard talk.

His advice is "If you see anything good, at the right price, buy it." He takes his own advice. A few days ago he bought for his own company thirty thousand acres of coal, for somewhere near twenty million dollars. He didn't wait, as some are waiting, with a vague hope that he might buy it later for twenty cents. There is a bottom even to prices. By and by you will be asking yourself, "Why didn't I when I had the chance?"

Whiskey is a tricky friend, a lying medicine,a deadly master. Monk Eastman, greatest of all gunmen and gangsters, is found murdered. The police were puzzled that the head killer should be so easily killed. But Eastman has been dealing in bootleg whiskey, and drinking it as well as selling it. The doctor after the autopsy said, "Monk Eastman was very drunk." That explained it all. Whiskey is the greatest gunman, especially bootleg whiskey.

Nearly a thousand dined with Hoover on Wednesday. Each paid a thousand dollars for the dinner, each ate a plate of rice, cup of cocoa, a small piece of bread—nothing else. Profits on the dinner went to poor children in Europe.

That dinner would be profitable also to the nine hundred that ate it if they could learn from it that such a meal, eaten every day, at noon or in the evening, would lengthen life by twenty years on the average.

Marshall Field 3d, grandson of the great Chicago merchant, is going into business in Chicago, in spite of the fact that he has more money than he needs now and will have, scores of millions more later.

He isn't marrying any Greek King's niece, or settling in England or even Newport. He has started in to work as his grandfather worked, and will spend the Field money where his grandfather made it, a pleasant change from the average. It is to be hoped Marshall Field can see that grandson, in Chicago, which to Marshall Field was the central flower bed in the Garden of Eden.

It looked as though D'Annunzio would have to die fighting. But luckily a poet has many ideas, and D'Annunzio has flown away in a flying machine, leaving word that his fellow countryment, who concentrated on "their Christmas greediness while we were assassinated by their government" were not worth dying for.

D'Annunzio is conquered but his nation owes him a great deal. He held in check the greed and indifference of Italy's allies, that would have deprived Italy of even a pretense of justice. To the courage and genius of D'Annunzio Italy owes the influence that she retains in the Adriatic.

It is said that D'Annunzio will now go to South America, which would be a mistake. Europe is the place for him. He will probably turn up in Paris of Monte Carlo, and think up a new idea, while talking to beautiful ladies as wild as himself. His life has not been dull.

Bad news of another great Italian Caruso. His illness takes a serious turn. Such a genius is to music what eyesight is to a picture or a sunset. Without eyes the picture does not exist. Without the voice of Caruso the real beauty of music does not exist. When his day comes—may it be many years hence—the world should build a fine monument to Caruso. The world will delight in his voice, preserved by science, after it ceases to talk of the "war heroes."

In India, chaplains are maintained to minister to British subjects as in the army and navy.

REPLACING FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS WILL CAUSE A BIG RUMPUS

MARION, Jan. 4—A stormy partisan fight early in the Harding administration over the proposed establishment of a centralized bank of the United States to replace the present Federal Reserve banks, was indicated here today when it became known that Republican leaders are laying plans to raise the issue soon. Leaders already have sought the support of Harding and plan to make the creation of a central bank one of the achievements of the next administration if Harding will consent to make the fight. Harding is studying the situation carefully before forming a definite opinion on the matter.

State Capital Thronged Today For Inaugural

(The Associated Press.)

TALLAHASSEE, Jan. 4.—Cary A. Hardee, Democrat, of Live Oak, was inaugurated governor of Florida today, succeeding Sidney J. Catts. The inauguration ceremonies were held at noon, following a parade, and Governor Hardee delivered his inaugural address after taking the oath.

In addressing the huge audience which had assembled for the inaugural speech of the new governor, Hon. Cary Hardee spoke as follows:

My Fellow Citizens—

A very wise provision in our state constitution has placed a limit of time in which one may serve continuously as chief executive of Florida. That he may not succeed himself finds hearty approval from thoughtful men and women. The inauguration of a chief executive becomes a frequently recurring event, marking the close of one administration and the beginning of another. In this representative government they who shall administer the affairs of the state, must first be called to service by the sovereign voice of the people, and so today having been thus called and in obedience to the will of the people of Florida, I am about to assume the high and responsible duties appertaining to the great office to which they have called me. It is my desire, and it seems quite appropriate that I should avail myself of the occasion now presented to pay grateful acknowledgement of my indebtedness to the people of our state for the confidence reposed in me as evidenced by my election to such an exalted position. I am not unmindful of the great honor conferred and am not lacking. I trust to the fine sense of gratitude which fills my heart today. As I read the fundamental and statutatory laws of Florida wherein are prescribed the duties and obligations of the chief executive, any possible sense of self sufficiency seems to grow less and my feeling of dependency upon the patient good will of the people and upon the co-operation and assistance of my associates in office more pronounced.

Much Work Ahead

A seriously question if the present is propitious for one to assume the governorship of the state, if perchance he expects to bask thereafter in popular favor. We are today in the wake of a great world conflict which taxed to the utmost the productive forces of the nation. During its continuance and immediately following the armistice which marked its conclusion, private business and public affairs have been administered in keeping with such profligacy of expenditures as was never before known. Individual thrift and frugality have been largely discarded, and erstwhile luxuries are now being classed as necessities. Thoughtful men have known that such an orgy of inflation and expenditure could not continue and with prophetic voice have all along wooed the people back to safer ground. Unfortunately we have not listened to more conservative counsels, and as a result we are in the midst of a period of industrial deflation which in magnitude our country has never experienced before. There is rapidly accumulating a vast army of unemployed and the farms and manufacturies find difficulty in disposing of their products. If the people of Florida, forced by stress of circumstances need to take stock of themselves and learn again the lesson forgotten during the great war, even so must the state "set its house in order" against the perils of changing conditions. I desire to call upon the people to exercise a spirit of charity towards us, who shall attempt to lead during the critical period of readjustment and likewise I call upon them to practice individually those wholesome principles perseverance, industry, economy and sober thinking.

Future Big with Promise

We have no cause for gloomy foreboding, no reason for discontent, if only we are filled with a consciousness of our inherent power, and a realization of the matchless resources which a kind Providence has bestowed upon us. The future is big with promise, and Florida may, if she will, come into her own. Ours is a rising state. Her people are not lacking in vision, and is natural resources she is rich indeed. The sturdy character of American citizenship is a result of the admixture of virile elements of varied nationalities. In a similar sense the amalgamation of those ever increasing streams of population, coming to us from every section of this broad land, must mean a citizenship of spiritual power and material achievement. The courageous spirit of the people, given fair opportunity and materials with which to work, will make Florida one of the greatest states of the Union. Do I need to call your attention to the vast resources, granted us by a beneficent Creator. Nearly 1,500 miles of sea coast, dotted here and there by splendid harbors. The commerce of the world finds facilities for trade, and the wealth of the waters of the sea belongs to us. Millions of acres of splendid agricultural lands, rich and fertile, specially adapted to agriculture, horticulture and live stock development, with little more than 4 per cent of it under cultivation. The wealth of our timber supply upon the face of the land and the hidden treasures beneath its surface speak of potential wealth of untold millions, and above all God's eternal sunshine affords us a climate which is attracting the peoples of less favored climes. I am carried, perhaps, to speak too much at length while contemplating the greatness of Florida. Let us set ourselves resolutely to the task of utilizing the proffered opportunities and building here on this beloved favored peninsula a commonwealth whose laws and institutions shall be so just and so efficiently administered

LOCAL GOLF COURSE IS COMPLETED

PRONOUNCED ONE OF FINEST IN THE SOUTH; PROFESSIONAL HERE

After 18 months of preparation, hard labor and the overcoming of what appeared to be unsurmountable difficulties, the golf course of the Daytona Golf and Country club will be formally opened Wednesday morning for play, the nine-hole course having been pronounced completed by President Carl H. Knappe and Professional James Shephard today.

The Daytona course, which is situated about one mile south of the corporate limits of the city, on the Dixie Highway, and back from the Halifax river a short distance, is one of the most picturesque links in the country, the architect, in laying out the course, emphasizing the tropical beauties of the country, thereby adding greatly to the physical beauties of the great stretch of land, as well as adding to the difficulties of play; a part of the game.

The local course is a "Donald Ross" course and that is sufficient to stamp it as one of the best. Ross was the designer and it was constructed under the supervision of Carl H. Knappe, who was instrumental in the formation of the club and president since its inception. James Shephard, one of the best known professionals in the game, has also had considerable to do with the construction of the course, and expresses his opinion, as one who has played on hundreds of courses in all parts of the country, as one of the finest laid out and most beautiful golf courses in America.

The physical description of the course is as follows: Hole No. 1, 387 yards; No. 2, 335 yards; No. 3, 475 yards; No. 4, 449 yards; No. 5, 142 yards; No. 6, 456 yards; No. 7, 355 yards; No. 8, 166 yards; No. 9 443 yards. The first nine holes are now ready for play, while those wishing to make the 18-hole course will play twice over the nine-hole course. Work, however, is progressing on the second nine holes which the club hopes to have completed by next season.

The officers of the Daytona Golf and Country club are: President, Carl H. Knappe; vice-president, H. E. Pence; secretary, J. L. Pepper, and treasurer, Fred N. Conrad.

To one who has not visited the course in recent weeks, the improvement to the entrance, from the Dixie Highway west to the course, is a pleasant surprise. W. V. Lawrence, who has taken a great interest in the course, has, at his own expense, laid a roadway and has set out plants and shrubbery along the drive, which makes the entrance a veritable flower garden. To Mr. Lawrence goes the thanks of the organization for his forethought in adding to the beauty of the roadway one of the finest improvements in connection with the course.

The road from the pavement to the course is laid with pine needles at present, and later will be maried. Many other improvements are planned to the property later on, when it is hoped to erect a country clubhouse in keeping with the natural beauties of the property.

It is expected that with the opening of the larger hotels in the Triple Cities this week, simultaneous with the opening of the golf course, that interest in the course will grow by leaps and bounds this season, serving as a means of keeping many guests in Daytona much later that usual.

To Carl H. Knappe goes the credit of overcoming obstacles in building the course which many feared would greatly handicap the construction of the course. That the links will be opened tomorrow is due largely to his incessant endeavors.

Daytona has passed another milestone in progress toward the greatest winter resort in the world.

"HOME BREW" OPIUM

CHINAMEN RAISE POPPIES FOR OWN DRUG.

(Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

AMOY, China, Jan. 3.—"Home brew" opium is the craze in China since the prohibition law made it impossible to buy the drug openly.

Reports received by Tan Kahkee, prohibition official, show that opium is being planted more extensively than ever in the Tongan, Chang-tai and Changpoo districts. Every family in these districts is said to be cultivating opium.

"It beats making wine in a dark cellar back home," said a tourist. "All a Chinaman has to do to get opium is to raise poppies. I never saw so many flower gardens in my life as have sprung up lately."

JAP AUTHORS MAKE PREDICTION OF WAR WITH UNCLE SAMUEL

(Newspaper Enterprise Association)

LONDON, Jan. 4—"Those who haven't foreseen future war between Japan and the United States are either imbeciles or blind."

That is part of the preface by Kavassima, to a revised edition of Tazukawa's book, originally issued in 1914 under the title, "The Future War Between Japan and the United States." Both writers are Japanese.

Paris is aroused over the preface, which further says:

"Look, for instance, at the Chinese American question. Isn't it a burning one for us?"

"Look to South America. Isn't the Monroe Doctrine a handicap for us?

"Consider again the question of the southern Pacific. Haven't New Zealand and Australia offered the United States an alliance against us?

"If our compatriots are blind, nothing can be done, but if they are wise, won't they admit this was a menace and becomes more so each day?"

Unready for War.

The Japs should avoid war at present, as their armaments are unready.

"When the armaments are ready, the critical moment approaches," he says.

He deems it strange that people don't understand this, and has calculated the changes of the two nations according to their forces.

The book pictures the capture of the Philippines and of Hawaii at one bold stroke, the taking of the Panama Canal, and the disembarkation of Jap troops in California.

It predicts a battle at San Francisco, followed by invasion of the entire western American coast by Jap legions.

Contents of Book

Typical chapter headings give an idea of the tenor:

"Are Americans civilized?"
"Japanese are not dogs."
"Rising Sun banner floats over Manila."
"Heaven protects us."
"Loss of Philippines."
"Feebleness of the American army."
"Direct attack on San Francisco."
"Battle of death."
"City falls."

Tazukawa also directs attention to California's restrictions on Japanese residents as a cause for aggressive action by Japan.

PLAYING MANAGERS ARE COMING BACK

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—Playing managers, after having become almost extinct in baseball are returning to favor.

Bench managers are just as rare in the old days as the active field leaders are today until the belief spread among club owners that the worry and troubles of a manager were too much for a player.

When Lee Fohl resigned late in the 1919 race, James C. Dunn, owner of the Cleveland Indians, made Tris Speaker, one of the greatest outfielders in the game his manager.

Experts predicted the decline of Speaker as a star when he took upon himself the burden of management.

But last season he not only played one of the greatest seasons of his career, but he took his club over a bump filled season through a bumped filled world's series to thec hampionship.

Ty Cobb now joins the slim ranks of playing managers. His experiment with the Detroit Tigers will be one of the features of the coming season.

Cobb's game fell off last season and he had to finish below the top of the batting pile for the second time in fourteen years.

William Baker, owner of the Philadelphia Nationals, would like to have had a playing manager to succeed Cavvy Cravath, who got in anly a few games last season, as a pinch hitter.

Harry Hooper, the star outfielder of the Boston Red Sox, was the choice of the Hub fans to succeed Ed Barrow as manager and Owner Frazee considered him for some time before he secured Hugh Duffy.

Rabbit Maranville, the diminutive star shortstop of the Boston Braves believes that the day will come when all the teams will be led by a playing manager again."

The Rabbit admits, however, that he isn't ready to take a chance on an executive job.

The magnates are not opposed to playing managers, in fact they approve of them because it is a money saving proposition—killing two birds with the same stone, as it were.

COAL LOWER IN ITALY

(Newspaper Enterprise Association)

ROME, Jan. 4—American coal is now quoted at $16 a ton, delivered. This a drop over war prices. Italy imported 517,000 tons of coal in November, 225,000 tone from Germany, 170,000 tons from America and 103,000 from English sources.

BASEBALL IS LIBERAL TO ITS HIRED MEN

By Dean Snyder

Baseball pays its hired men well.

When President Navin of the Detroit club said, "Sign here," Ty Cobb became the highest paid player in baseball.

His services to the Tigers as player and manager are valued at $30,000 per. Ty got $18,000 for being just one of the boys in the lineup last year.

He ranks among the highest paid managers in the business now. John McGraw is said to receive a stipend of $35,000 from the coffers of the Giants. But McGraw holds stock in the club.

On Aug. 28, 1905, Cobb came to Detroit from Augusta. The price paid for the Georgia jewel was $700. Few investments pay as big a dividend as this one.

Cost of Judging

Ranking man in baseball from the salary angle is Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the one-man baseball commission. His cut on the box office bank roll is $42,500 with $10,000 extra for traveling expenses.

The judge still retains his seat on the bench for which he gets $7,500 yearly, boosting his pay envelope to $50,000.

Tris speaker, the only other playing manager in the big leagues, is said to have drawn $20,000 for his work in 1920. Since winning a world championship for the Indians the figures in his yearly check will probably be substantially raised.

Babe's Pin-Money

Babe Ruth gets a salary of $20,000 from the New York Yankees for his prowess as a home-run hitter. He is worth more.

But the salary which the Yankee owners pay their star is mere pin-money to what he has made in side lines by capitalizing his reputation as a home-run hitter.

A movie company gave him a flat $50,000. Exhibition games in the east and Cuba have netted him over $38,000. Profit from the Babe Ruth cigar will add another $5,000. His life story sold for $3,000. Bonuses for indorsing articles brought him another lump of $3,000.

Equals Ring Income

Ruth is the first star in baseball whose earnings equal the incomes of ring champions.

Contracts by the score were waiting for him to sign when he finished the season with the Yankees. He could have gone into vaudeville or anything that he wished.

Other high-salaried players are Eddie Collins of the White Sox. He is said to be a $15,000 a year man. Glover Alexander is another. Alex is in the $12,000 class.

Velvet for Ruth

Babe probably earns his money the easiest.

The judge will be in the thick of baseball brawls every minute he holds his job. Cobb and Speaker are responsible for the standing of their respective clubs in addition to their playing duties. But all Babe has to do is to step into one and knock it curly and he is given credit for a day's work.

They're all smart fellows. If they weren't they wouldn't be baseball's highest paid hired men.

REFUGEES FROM ALSACE BITTER IN DENOUNCING FRENCH CONTROL THERE

(The Associated Press.)

KARLSRUHE, Germany, Jan. 3.—Baden, Wurttemberg and Bavaria are overrun by refugees from Alsace and consequently the feeling against the French ism ore bitter here, perhaps than in any other part of the old German empire. In the Karlsruhe area all the old prison camps and many barracks are filled with families which were deported from Alsace, or left because they refused to live under the French rule.

Several thousand refugees from Alsace are sheltered in long wooden shacks which formerly housed British prisoners in the main recreation park in the center of Karlsruhe. These former prisons have all been converted into residences by Alsatians who have draped the windows with lace curtains and given the wire enclosed compound a homey appearance by the display of potted plants.

The Alsatian refugees are bitter in their denunciation of the French. They tell tales of how the French expel families from Strassburg and other cities on the statement of unfriendly neighbors that the suspects have been propagandizing for Germany and working againstt France.

The Alsatians are especially indignant because German has been abolished from the schools of Alsace. There they say a great majority of the population is German-speaking and will migrate rather than abandon its native language. Refugees from Metz and other parts of Larraine are less critical about the language question. They admit French was the predominant tongue in Larraine.

Nearly all the refugees with whom the Associated Press correspondent talked were very sharp in their criticism of the attitude of the old German government toward Alsace and Lorraine and frankly admitted the unyielding policy of Germany toward the two districts afforded the French an excuse for their attitude toward the distinctively German population.

"Stream of Life" to Be Played Sat. at the Auditorium

On Saturday evening at the auditorium will be shown that wonderful film with an international reputation and which especially appeals to the church going people, "The Stream of Life." This new religious photo-drama was given its premier showing at the Solemn Rite theater, Broadway, New York. It also was shown in the new convention studio at Universal City, Cal., and during Easter week at the Capitol theater, New York. It also was shown at the Imperial Lyric theater, one week at the Imperial Lyric theater, Jacksonville, and one week at the Tampa theater, Tampa. It is now coming to Daytona Beach, and has been endorsed by the ministers of the various churches in the city. The story is told in pictures as follows:

Here is the simple life of a country home. Philip Harcourt is fortunate in having a father and mother who bring him up with a proper conception of life that he should embrace and love and respect for God's and religion. But he is not satisfied with the simple life of the country and the influences that are surrounding him. The other children of their place, happier under on a short time, and Philip is anxious to go out and mingle in the world, although his father and mother implore him to remain with them. He runs away from home, and is followed by his mother, who finds him in the midst of a wild, riotous, drunken revel, the ringleader of which is Philip, who has become intoxicated.

Philip leaves the town. He carries with him the parental blessing. The realization of the murder of the first love breaks his heart. He is a wanderer, bereft of the Holy Writ, lonely and troubled. To Philip Free the Bible.

In the city he matches wits for the title of a position he would like, and is in the employ of a man willing to obtain a job as a boy of all work. From the start his rise is rapid because of his honesty and his desire to work before him. The stream of life flows on. Success is his, but he finds himself in the midst of a life of sin. Rich, happily married, carried to excess, he drifts from the spiritual teachings. Doubt besets him unbridled.

Then in a moment, without warning, he is plunged into the deepest, most profound grief and despair. The beautiful, only daughter is dead. The child, who has opened the eyes of the doubt to the beauty of sacred things, is taken from him. Overcome with grief, his wife wanders out into along a quiet street and sees on the corner a large building with the sign "Gospel Mission," and beholds a wonderful vision of the returning Christ. She rushes into the building and in the anguish of his soul he still is relentless against God. Then he goes out into the street and sees a violin and sees a poor man, and in loving tribute they find in their hearts the guiding principle of the Golden Commandment.

Full and plentiful is the flow, the stream of life, and Philip, once more on his way, is in a quiet room, mourning for his dead child, and his wife are gone, but before his spiritual sight they come back again to him, and he is filled with the joy of his heart. He is reunited with his family and his home beside. A spiritual awakening has come to him, and he has an opportunity to meet and labor in the little girl to the band. Together they go out into the world, and the power that leads to the Great Beyond. A man with ears is waiting, and he is filled with the spirit of the shining words and the Gospel of a larger love and deeper service.

Among the members of the board to be seen on the stage are T. and T. Fuqua of Flagler, Mrs. Peter Tomoka, owner of Island, Lake, and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Beach and Samuel Beach, Cedarhurst. They are quartered at the Breakers apartments.

Harry L. Rich, a well known young man of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Miss Mildred G. Cooper an office assistant in Dunlap Avery Studios at the Auditorium, were married Saturday by the minister of the Methodist Episcopal church here. Mr. Rich took up his duties at the ticket window Monday morning.

Postoffice Showing Most Gratifying to Beach Residents

Postmaster Joseph Reed is much pleased at the results Daytona Beach is making in connection to shown in the postoffice figures.

In Reed says there were more visitors here for the winter in October, 1920, than during those three years of the greatest prosperity. Additionally attendance in the office proper has been more complete each year, the Christmas rush, and now that New York's fine 1920, shows that more letters have been handled than during the past year of 1920 and that the fact there have been more visitors here this winter than ever before. The largest business in the history of the office, and with a still larger quarter in sight when there is a larger and more elaborate quarters for the Daytona Beach will have their postoffice at the northeast in July, 1921. Mr. Reed said if they can be provided for two years and if they become crowded for any reason, the building will be enlarged.

Mrs. Irene McPherson of Deland is a former resident of Daytona and has a pleasing, magnetic personality.

Mrs. Irene McPherson of Deland is a former resident of Daytona and has a pleasing, magnetic personality.

Lucile Leach of Cordova, Ky., and Miss Dorothy Dranck of Providence, R. I., officiated as assistant principals at the polls and rendered valuable service in receiving the returns.

Director James Weston has had an offer received in making "The Last Frontier" portray the development of the American frontier efforts are underway. He says they had about 1,000 people in the picture and that in the case the film operated perfectly, one in the audience for the entire picture. Mr. Weston says that it is a picture of education, but an absolutely perfect picture, showing the use of the high school auditorium for the purpose.

For the second performance tonight the seat sale opened bright and early this morning, and indications are that there will be a capacity house. Many seats were sold over the phone, and it is expected that many more than on the opening performance.

Mrs. Hendon E. Tomlin, who has remembered that she is a member of the Daytona Beach Woman's club, attended the meeting of the club in the city hall Saturday afternoon. She says that the second night's performance was even better than on the opening one.

Camp Fire Girls Hold Celebration New Year's Night

Mrs. John H. Payne and daughter, Miss Katherine, of Lexington, Ky., have opened their winter home at 711 Halifax street, Daytona Beach, to the Campfire Girls, for their New Year's festivities.

The celebration took the form of a reception, which began at 8 o'clock, while their parents are still receiving in their parlor, while the latter entertained with music and vaudeville.

Mrs. Kirk is in the artificial ice manufacturing business and has been for two seasons at the Beach. She says he likes the appearance of things here much, and he says the people are very pleased to learn of the passage of H. R. Report as one of the important things for the next session in Daytona, and thinks it probable will be very soon entered into the name for a general meeting of business.

Mr. Kirk says that when Beach first started in the ice business in the years of his machines a night's work was about all the consumption, but now they have to run 24 hours a day to keep up with the demand.

"Winter a new home," said Mr. Kirk, after Ford's motors were made public, the congregate here was a motor, and there were motors of the native cars selling the orders that had given to the factories, and the factories were at work on all of which they were working. All cars they could be sent to stop operations, and Mr. Ford, as a result of the automobile industry had to cut down. It was given out that they were down to two-thirds of their normal capacity. I am sure it does not indicate it was not unfavorable. I look for business of this year to be one of the best in the country. Everything is now different years of wages than when they were at the top. We have confidence, therefore, in our business and have every confidence in the country."

Mrs. Kirk was one of the Beach visitors who was in the Dixie Theater on the night of the auditorium's opening and was struck at the entertainment given by the Daytona Beach Woman's club. She says that she was very much pleased with the entertainment and the manner in which it was given.

Ice Manufacturer from Detroit Is at Beach with Family

Daytona Beach is certainly fortunate in the citizens of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Kirk and their six sons, formerly of Detroit, Mich. They are now living at 1000 Halifax road, Daytona Beach, a city formerly known as Detroit, Mich. They are a fine bunch of healthy and robust boys, while their parents are still enjoying the comforts of life and are with young and vigorous.

Mr. Kirk is in the artificial ice manufacturing business and has been for two seasons at the Beach. He says he likes the appearance of things here much, and he says the people are very pleased to learn of the passage of H. R. Report as one of the important things for the next session in Daytona, and thinks it probable will be very soon entered into the name for a general meeting of business.

Mr. Kirk says that when Beach first started in the ice business in the years of his machines a night's work was about all the consumption, but now they have to run 24 hours a day to keep up with the demand.

"Winter a new home," said Mr. Kirk, after Ford's motors were made public, the congregate here was a motor, and there were motors of the native cars selling the orders that had given to the factories, and the factories were at work on all of which they were working. All cars they could be sent to stop operations, and Mr. Ford, as a result of the automobile industry had to cut down. It was given out that they were down to two-thirds of their normal capacity. I am sure it does not indicate it was not unfavorable. I look for business of this year to be one of the best in the country. Everything is now different years of wages than when they were at the top. We have confidence, therefore, in our business and have every confidence in the country."

Mrs. Kirk was one of the Beach visitors who was in the Dixie Theater on the night of the auditorium's opening and was struck at the entertainment given by the Daytona Beach Woman's club. She says that she was very much pleased with the entertainment and the manner in which it was given.

Man Arrested for Theft of Articles from Schulte Park

Louis Yorke, an Italian who says he hails from Saratoga, N. Y., and that his former home is in Jersey City, was arrested Monday morning, when the laundry of food and cooking utensils from the camp of a man named Long, located in Schulte Park.

R. B. Schulte, the well known real estate man, owns most of the property and is also owned by Marshal W. D. Young. When Yorke, before Justice Bethea for examination and bond, Chief Young told how Yorke had been arrested by the chief of police of Daytona, for the theft of articles from the camp of Long, and had confessed to the commission of entertainment. He telephoned his brother for $100 bail, but the latter, Western Union office of course had transferred Louis Yorke money, and refused to put up the bail. The other, left for such a person. However, the consumer refused to go on the bond, and Yorke had to go to jail. Yorke said he had a partner who came here with him, but that he had left for Jacksonville, and that he had taken a couple of cans of beans, some coffee, a few potatoes and a can of syrup, besides a pair and spoon, but gave an excuse for larger quantities. In fact, he said he had two cans of coffee but two beans and he was starving. He had a boat also which he said belonged to the camp and he made use of it to go out and fish in.

Mr. Schulte said there were "thousands" of articles taken from the camp, and he had lost a bunch of land worth $100 within the last few days, and one of the men who had taken some from the camp, he informed, is now in jail implicated with. He said he had been in the habit of leaving the camp open for the use of campers, and that if Yorke would give him a list of the articles he had taken he would be satisfied to let him compound his offense by paying the costs. Yorke said he would do so, but that he had no money.

OPEN HOUSE ON NEW YEAR'S GREATLY ENJOYED

The reception at the Osceola club on New Year's day was greatly enjoyed by a very pleasant occasion. The perfect music, Leslie Fischer, the members of the club and all members of the club contributed a great success. The Auditorium was decorated with the club colors, red and green, in profusion, with many congenial times. They were also decorated with the club colors, red and green, in profusion, with many congenial times. "Stream of Life" to Be Played Sat. at the Auditorium

On Saturday evening at the Auditorium will be shown that wonderful film with an international reputation and which especially appeals to church-going people, "The Stream of Life." This new religious photo-drama was given its premier showing at the famous Rialto theater, Broadway, New York. It also was shown for six consecutive weeks at Ocean Grove, N. J., and during Easter week at the Casino theater, New York. It was also shown at the General Conference of the M. E. church at its recent meeting in Des Moines, Iowa, and has been exhibited before other religious bodies. The story as portrayed is as follows:

Born to the simple life of a country farm, Philip Maynard is fortunate in having a father and mother who bring him up with a proper sense of his duty to others and a love and reverence for truth and religion. He is happy in the little district school, romping with the other children at their play; happier alone on a shady bank with his line dangling in a quiet pool, and happiest of all when, through summer leaves, the sunlight falls in softened radiance upon him and his boyhood sweetheart.

Philip leaves the farm. He carries with him the paternal blessing, the benediction of the pastor of the dear old country church and a leather-bound volume of the Holy Writ, lovingly inscribed, "To Philip from his Mother."

In the city he searches vainly for the kind of a position he would like, and in his desperation is glad enough to obtain a job as a boy of all work. From the start his rise is rapid because he sets his whole heart to the task before him. The stream of life flows on. Success is his, but he little dreams of the price he has paid for it. Rich, happily married, courted by society, he drifts from his spiritual moorings. Doubt merges into unbelief.

Then in a moment, without warning, the happy home is plunged into profound grief and despair. The beautiful, only daughter is dead. But Philip's mother, invited for a brief visit, had opened the eyes of the little girl to the beauty of sacred things. Oppressed with the burden of her grief, his wife wanders one day along a quiet street and sees an ivy-colored chapel invitingly open. She enters and beholds a wonderful vision of the consoling Christ. She tells her husband, but in the anguish of his mind he still is rebellious against God. Later, in a lonely night vigil, he too has a vision and sees a great light, and in loving embrace they feel in their hearts the gentle presence of the Eternal Comforter.

Full and placid in its flow, the stream of life moves slowly on and nears the mighty ocean. Philip, now an old man, lies in a quiet room, awaiting the final summons. Mother and wife are gone, but before his faded sight they come back again as visions of the past. Then the daughter appears. Her sweet face smiles and her little hands beckon. A spirit form arises from the bed, leaving behind its outworn tenement, and takes the little girl by the hand. Together they seek the shore of the mighty ocean, that leads to the Great Beyond. A boat with oars is waiting. It bears them out over calm and shining waters until they disappear in a purple haze that deepens around the setting sun.

Harry L. Starr, a bright appearing young man of Holly Hill, has succeeded Herbert G. Cooper as office assistant to Director James Heaton at the Auditorium. Mr. Cooper resigned to enter the automobile livery business. Mr. Starr took up his duties at the ticket window Monday morning.

Postoffice Showing Most Gratifying to Beach Residents

Postmaster Joseph Reed is much gratified at the strides Daytona Beach is making in population as shown by the postoffice figures.

Mr. Reed says there were more visitors here for the winter on October 15 this season than there were on January 15 last year. This, of course, indicates to him that there is no doubt of the rapid growth of the town's population as a resort. It is necessary for a postoffice to do $10,000 worth of business each year to be entitled to free delivery, and now that New Year's day, 1921, showed that this office had done $10,000 in business during the past year of 1920 and that the last three months had done the largest business in the history of the office, and with a still bigger quarter to come right away, there is no longer the slightest question but that Daytona Beach will have free delivery at the fartherest in July, 1922. She will do this well if she has to "paddle her own canoe," and if Seabreeze should, by any possibility, decide to come in, both places will have rapidly about town last night, and six months.

President Guy G. Bailey of the Daytona Beach-Seabreeze Chamber of Commerce was very much elated when he received the good news that the local postoffice did $10,000 worth of business during 1920, or a gain of 60 per cent over last year. He feels now that as the town is entitled to free delivery on its own merits that every effort should be made and every influence brought to bear to secure justice for this town from the office of the postmaster general. Mr. Bailey is frank to say that it would please him amazingly if Seabreeze would now join in and make it certain to secure free delivery for both places by July 1st of this year.

News of the splendid showing of the Daytona Beach postoffice spread their play; happier alone on a shady it was the subject of many conversations while Postmaster Reed received the warm congratulations of many residents who have watched the strides of this wonderful beach resort.

Mrs. George F. Johnson is expected to arrive this evening or tomorrow from her home in Endicott, N. Y., to spend the winter in her new palatial residence on Peninsula drive, just across the road from the home of Fred C. Johnson, her husband's brother, who arrived yesterday. "This new mansion will be completed upon her arrival," said W. M. McLarty, the contractor, who is putting on the finishing touches. He says this home has seven or eight of the most magnificently equipped bathrooms he ever saw and that the entire residence is a model of beauty and elegance. Camp Fire Girls Hold Celebration New Year's Night

Mrs. John H. Payne and daughter, Mary Katherine, of Lexington, Ky., again opened their winter home at 713 Harvey street, Daytona Beach, to the Campfire Girls, for their New Year's festivities.

The celebration took the form of a ceremonial meeting. Attractively arrayed in their Indian robes, the happy group formed a circle around lighted candles, placed in the center of the parlor. Whilst in this sitting posture they sang Campfire songs, gave readings and narrated meritorious deeds for which highly colored beads were awarded.

The First Guardian, Miss May Haigh, senior student at Stetson university, read encouraging reports of the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals, also of the work among the French war orphans, sponsored by the girls.

L. R. Reynolds, Y. M. C. A. secretary of Daytona, delivered a most helpful address to the circle in which he stressed the importance of their cultivating those traits which characterize a pleasing, magnetic personality.

Mrs. Emma McPherson of DeLand, a polished dialect reader, convulsed her young auditors with her ludicrous impersonations of the black mammy of a half century ago.

Lucile Leach of Cynthiana, Ky., was welcomed as a new member, and Miss Dorothy Demick of Providence, R. I., affiliated as assistant guardian.

The girls and invited guests were served tempting refreshments by the hostess.

AN APPRECIATION

Director James Heaton for the Auditorium management is anxious that all who assisted in making "The Lost Princess" production a success know how sincerely there efforts are appreciated. He says they feel under special obligations to all the members of the cast for their splendid performance, to the orchestra for its excellent music and to Superintendent R. J. Longstreet for so graciously permitting the use of the high school auditorium for rehearsal purposes.

For the second performance tonight the seat sale opened bright and early Monday morning, and there is every reason to believe that there will be a larger house than on the opening evening.

Mrs. Hortense R. Reynolds, who has demonstrated that she is a matchless trainer and conductor, says it is always the case that the second night has the larger attendance.

Mrs. Reynolds is not certain where she will put on "The Lost Princess" next. She desires to go to Des Moines, Iowa, for a few weeks' rest, but she has had some correspondence with persons in Jacksonville, Miami, St. Augustine and St. Petersburg, but as yet no definite arrangements have been made, so she will not know for a day or two just what she will do in the immediate future.

Ice Manufacturer from Detroit Is at Beach with Family

Daytona Beach is certainly fortunate in the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Kirk and their six sons, Emerson, Kenneth, Bruce, Donald, Alvin and Gordon, a real Roosevelt family from Detroit, Mich. They are a fine bunch of bright and robust boys, while their parents are still enjoying the sunny side of life and are still young and vigorous.

Mr. Kirk is in the artificial ice manufacturing business and this is his first season at the Beach. He says he likes the appearance of things very much, and he and his family are very pleasantly located in the cottage of M. N. Bogart at 103 Ocean front. He says business is very quiet in Detroit, and thinks it probably will be until next summer, when he looks for a general revival of business.

Mr. Kirk says that when Henry Ford announced a reduction in the price of his machines a mighty hard blow was struck at the automobile industry throughout the country. "Within a few hours," said Mr. Kirk, "after Ford's notices were made public, the telegrams began to arrive from every section of the nation cancelling the orders they had given to other companies for other cars and on which they were working. All they could do was to stop operations, because they knew that sooner or later they would have to make reductions in prices to compare with those made by Mr. Ford. As a result all of the automobile factories had to shut down. It was given out that they shut down for inventory and repairs, but I am sure in most instances it was for readjustment. I look for many of them to start up in the early spring, but carrying a very different scale of wages than when they shut down. By next summer, therefore, I look for things to be running about normal. Every one knows that there is no stopping the automobile industry. There is no power on earth to interfere with the manufacture of automobiles permanently. It is just being delayed temporarily, but is sure to come back all right and in a very few months. I am confident, however, that every manufacturer in the country will be obliged to submit to price reductions and quite substantial ones, too."

Man Arrested for Theft of Articles from Schulte Park

Louis Yorio, an Italian who says he hails from Saratoga, N. Y., and that his mother lives in Jersey City, was arrested Monday charged with the larceny of food and cooking utensils from the camp of a man named Long, located in Schulte Park.

H. B. Schulte, the well known real estate man, swore out the warrant, and it was served by Marshal W. D. Young. When taken before Justice Selden for hearing the young man, who was fairly well dressed, told a strange story. He said he was on his way to Miami, where he thought he could get a job, and stopped off here to spend the holidays fishing; that he went out to bathe in the ocean, and while in the water his clothes and between $200 and $300 in money were stolen, leaving him practically penniless. He claims to have appealed to the chief of police of Daytona for work or help of some kind, but received no assistance or encouragement. He telegraphed his mother for money and Judge Selden asked the Western Union office if anyone had telegraphed Louis Yorio money, and he was informed there was a money order there for such a person. However, the company refused to pay the money to Yorio without identification. Yorio said he had a partner who came here with him, but that he had not seen him since Sunday morning and he had either deserted him or something had happened to him. He admitted he had taken a couple of cans of beans, some coffee, a few potatoes and a can of syrup, besides a pan and spoon, but gave as an excuse his hungry condition. In fact, he said he had had very little for two days and felt he was starving. He had a boat also which he said drifted up to the shore, and he made use of it, but did not claim it.

Mr. Schulte said there were "No trespass" notices on his premises and that he had lost a bunch of tools worth $150 within the last few days, and as Yorio had admitted stealing the things from the camp, he naturally had suspicioned him. He said he did not want anyone to be punished unjustly and that if Yorio would produce his partner or anyone he knew to show he was all right he was willing to let him go. Judge Selden was inclined to give him a fine of $25 and costs, or 20 days in jail. Finally he concluded to let Yorio telegraph his mother for $50 to clean the matter up, and if she responds Yorio can settle up and proceed to Miami.

OPEN HOUSE ON NEW YEAR'S GREATLY ENJOYED

The reception at the Peninsula clubhouse on New Year's day proved a very pleasant occasion. The perfect sunny, balmy Florida day brought out a good number and all declared the afternoon a great success. The decorations were especially pleasing, with the real and green in profusion, with many beautiful roses. They were very noticeable on the mantle, where they were banked around the pictures of Judge and Mrs. Sears, and all regretted their inability to be present. The dining room, which had the festive appearance of the rest of the house, was presided over, in relays of two, by Mesdames Selperman, Letzlaff, Reed, Raynor, A. S. Randall, Meyers, De Visser and Miss Lintchell. The guards at the door were Madames Ayers, Allen, Brennan and Reynolds; the waitresses, Mrs. Householder, Silling, Horn, Pollitz, Misses Wakefield, Newberry and Mervell. The Wilson orchestra furnished the music. Mr. Heaton sang very delightfully a solo and responded to an encore, and Mrs. McPherson recited "The Dark Brown Diplomat," and as an encore gave "Encouragement."

The silver offering will go to swell the fund for building a new clubhouse, which is greatly needed.

Oliver Harding, Once Resident of Daytona, Dead

Older residents of Daytona who will remember Oliver Harding, a civil war veteran who lived for some years here will regret to learn of his death at Carrollton, O., recently.

The Carrollton Free Press-Standard gives the following account of his death:

"Oliver Harding, civil war veteran, died Wednesday noon at his residence on East Main-st. after an illness of two days with pneumonia. He was born at Kilgore, Feb. 18, 1843, a son of John Harding, and was aged 78 years. In February, 1867, he was married at Kilgore to Maria Fetty. To this union two sons were born—Elmer, deceased, and William residing at Arlington, Florida. Mr. Harding, with his family, moved to Carrollton in 1880, he followed his trade as carpenter. Because of the ill health of Mrs. Harding the family removed to Florida a few years later, where the wife and mother died shortly afterward. Mr. Harding returned to Carrollton, where he was later married to Mrs. Laura McLaughlin who survives. He is survived by a brother, William Harding, Kilgore and two sisters, Mrs. Drucilla Ward Carrollton, and Mrs. Emeline Long Bergholz, besides a half-brother Frank B. Hosterman, Carrollton, and a half-sister, Mrs. Ellen Simmons, near Harlem. Mr Harding was a life-long member of the Methodist church, was quiet and unassuming, and lived true to his faith in God."

Hi-y Clubs of Boys and Girls In Joint Session

The Hi-Y clubs of boys and girls of the Daytona High school greatly enjoyed a joint session of the two clubs in the domestic science rooms at Central High school Monday evening, the affair being given by the County Y. M. C. A., of which the two clubs are auxiliaries.

The high school orchestra played during the evening's program, which also was made up of short toasts and speeches, Miss Mae O'Neill responding to the toast, "Boys," while Jack Delaney answered with a toast to the "Girls."

Robt. S. Holmes was the principal speaker of the evening, giving a most delightful address, including a travelogue and interesting anecdotes along the line of practical Christian service.

More than thirty members of the Hi-Y clubs took part in the evening's entertainment which was one of the most pleasurable arranged by the Y. M. C. A. this season.

WHY DO THEY MARRY?

(Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind. Jan. 4—Why are there so many marriages and divorces in Clarke county? Representatives of the Russell Sage Foundation are here to find out. More than 3000 persons were married here the past year although the county's population is only 30,000. Of 297 suits filed in local courts since Nov. 28, 1919, 143 have been for divorce.

Middleton Wins by Knockout in the Third Round

Three rounds of boxing, twenty minutes of wrestling and a battle royal sums up the entertainment at the Armory last night. A preliminary boxing exhibition was scheduled, but the assembled fans voted in favor of a mat exhibition between Albright and Jordon instead, Albright agreeing to endeavor to throw Jordon in twenty minutes.

The new wrestling mat, which fills a long felt want, was christened by Jack Jordon and Jack Albright, with Tom Marvin as referee. Jordon was on the defensive from the tap of the gong, as he is much lighter than Albright who works with ease and precision. However, he failed to throw his opponent within twenty minutes, and as a result Marvin was the winner.

Jack Middleton and Sailor Burke shook hands for a twelve round bout, which started off with Burke, who had appointed for Jack Rose, doing all the fighting in the first round. Middleton refused to lead in the initial stanza, but he cut loose in the second and scored two knockdowns, in one of which Burke took the count of six. In the third round The Sailor felt the decks heaving under him after a bit of in-fighting, and went down and out, Middleton winning by the knockout route.

It was announced that on next Monday night Jack Albright will wrestle Tom Marvin to a finish and that good preliminaries will be put on.

Henson's Grocery Entered, Robbed by Unknown Party

Henson's grocery and market at 237 North Beach street was entered and robbed on Saturday night, a window having been found to have been removed some time in the night, the thief gaining access to the building apparently through this method.

The cash register was relieved of some $.6 in change, which had been left in the store over night. It is unknown whether any stock was stolen or not, but apparently none was taken, as nothing seemed to be unusually disturbed when the robbery was discovered Sunday.

No clue has yet been obtained by the police, who are working on the robbery, but merchants are warned that a clever sneak thief is about and that precautions should be taken.

Hotel Men of Triple Cities Elected Officers

The Daytona Hotel Man's association held a special session this morning at the Daytona Chamber of Commerce offices, at which time election of officers took place and other business of importance to the hotel life of the Triple Cities transacted.

Henry W. Haynes, of the Princess Issena, Seabreeze, was elected president of the organization for the ensuing year, succeeding Col. W. P. Woodbury, of the Ridgewood. Wm. Chaley, of the Pines, was elected vice-president, and W. W. Hilyard, of the Prince George, was re-elected secretary and treasurer. The executive committee, chosen this morning, for this year includes Messrs. Henry W. Haynes, R. W. Ball, of the Lyndhurst, and J. P. Glenn, of the Seaside Inn.

The advertising committee has not as yet been appointed, but when selected will inaugurate a big advertising campaign for the late season.

WILL PROCEED WITH PLAN OF MOTOR RACES

Plans which have been formulating for several weeks, for the holding of the world motor races an Daytona Beach late in the present winter season, perhaps in early April, were furthered Monday evening at a meeting of the Daytona Beach Motor Racing Association when definite plans were made for the course, which it is planned will be extended to some 24 miles, in place of the 12 miles, which has been used in the past, from the south limits of Daytona Beach, to Mosquito Inlet Lighthouse. The new plans include a back track from the Inlet, along the Maley road, to Silver Beach avenue, Daytona Beach, making a loop of about 24 miles, half of which would be on the beach and half on the river road.

Capt. C. D. Paxson, chairman of the racing association urged this route to be built for the big races, stating that with little expenditure, a road could be cut from the beach to the river, at the Inlet, to make the swing around the circuit, and that the Maley road could be repaired with little expenditure.

The plan met the instant approval of the committee, who are making every effort to enthuse the merchants and residents of the Triple Cities in the meet, which will, as planned, be on a par with the greatest track meets in America.

Stock Record Race This Week

The efforts of Ralph Mulford, in a Paige stripped stock car, to break the standing world record on the local beach this week, were also discussed by the committee who are assisting Mr. Mulford, and a schedule of amateur races was also laid out for later in the week. The date when Mulford will go after the records is indefinite as it depends on the arrival in Daytona of Special Starter Fred J. Wagner, Timer Capt. R. A. Leavell, and officials of the Triple A, under whose sanction the trials will be made.

From arrangements being made by Mulford today, however, it will be Friday or Saturday before he will have his car in shape for the world record trials.

The amateur events will be run at that time, for which trophies will be offered competitors. The schedule of races, as drawn up by the racing committee are as follows:

1—Five-mile race for stripped Ford cars.
2—Five-mile race for fully equipped cars driven by women.
3—Five-mile race for cars with motors developing 20 horsepower.
4—Five-mile race for cars with motors developing over 20 horsepower.
5—Five-mile free for all, any make car, driven by any amateur driver.

Entry blanks will be in the hands of Secretary S. B. Crosby of the Daytona Chamber of Commerce and all speed fiends of the Triple Cities are requested to get their entries in, in plenty of time before the day of the races.

300 LIQUOR GUARDS

COST OF GUARDING WAREHOUSES IS $510,000 A YEAR.

(Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 4—The number of guards policing whiskey stored in Kentucky warehouses will be increased from 200 to 300 in 1921. They will cost $710,000 a year.

This is due to the plan to centralize all whiskey in Kentucky.

Whiskey withdrawn from warehouses during the first 20 days of December totaled 300,000 gallons. Prohibition agents say this indicated preparation for the holidays.

Internal revenue records show 1,210,918 gallons of whiskey were withdrawn between October 1 and Christmas.

Florida Special Is the Sixth Train Added by F. E. C.

In order to take care of the fast increasing traffic by rail, due to the opening this week of all the larger hotels on the East Coast, the Florida East Coast railway today added a sixth through train from Jacksonville to Miami, making the schedule of six trains each way through Daytona.

The new train, in operation today, is the Florida Special, which will be inaugurated today from Jacksonville south and from Miami north tomorrow, being known as trains 87 and 88.

The addition of the Florida Special gives Daytona the following schedule of trains:

Southbound: Trains leave Daytona at 1:26 a. m., 1:47 a. m., 1:00 p. m., 1:44 p. m., 7:33 p. m. and 9:40 p. m.

Northbound trains leave Daytona at 4:12 a. m., 4:40 a .m., 8:45 a. m., 11:15 a. m., 3:25 p. m. and 3:50 p. m.

The new upton office of the F. E. C. is already making a great hit with travelers, making unnecessary a trip to the station for information and tickets. The new office was opened New Year's Day, and will be open every day, excepting Sundays, for the present.

HARDINGS MAY SELL FAMOUS FRONT PORCH

(United Press.)

MARION, Jan. 4—Strange feet may tread the famous front porch at 380 Mount Vernon avenue here after March 4, if present plans of the Hardings are carried out.

Having engaged a home on Pennsylvania avenue in Washington for the next four years, they hope to dispose of their home in Marion and the brick house on Wyoming avenue in Washington, where Harding lived during his term in the senate.

President-elect Harding, however has no intention of selling the Marion Star, as this little newspaper made him several times his senate salary last year. In fact, he is planning to erect a large, modern plant in the near future.

The Harding home in Marion probably will either be leased or sold in the next few weeks. The house was shut up for six years while the Hardings were in Washington. Newspapers were put up in the windows, the house went unpainted and tall weeds grew in the front yard, where thousands gathered around the front porch last fall. Senator Harding had to dig up several hundred dollars to put it in condition for occupancy during the campaign. A shortage of housing in Marion and a reluctance to allow so much money to remain tied up in an empty dwelling have prompted Mrs. Harding to cast about for a way to realize on the investment. But Senator Harding, and Mrs. Harding too, hold the place in a deep sentimental regard and may at the last minute decide to keep it for the memories of the presidential campaign.

An ex-senator, who probably will be in the Harding cabinet, has already expressed a desire to purchase the Washington home, and it probably will be disposed of, furniture and all to him.

HERBERT HOOVER IS URGED AS HEAD OF A PUBLIC WORKS DEPT.

(Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—Placing Herbert Hoover at the head of a new department of Public Works to take charge of all the government's engineering and construction bureaus is advocated by Congressman C. F. [illegible].

Such a department, as Reavis describes it, would handle the government's great practical problems and [illegible] its political ones.

Reavis' resolution providing for a joint committee from House and Senate to investigate existing departments and bureaus, and draft a reorganization program for the guidance of Congress, has passed both houses and is not expected to draw fire from the president.

Another Bill Pending.

Reavis also has introduced a bill providing that all the engineering and construction bureaus in the different departments for materials, would tend to standardize costs and promote economy and efficiency.

It has been suggested that Hoover's organizing ability might be brought to bear in assisting Congress in forming its reorganization scheme.

It is now planned the preliminary work would be done by a committee consisting only of congressmen.

In view of the fact that it will be [illegible] a year before any general reorganization plan is adopted, it is said that Harding will wait on Congress to provide a special department for Hoover. If he wants him in the cabinet, he will put him there March 4th.

LATEST NEWS OFF THE TICKER FROM NEW YORK MARKET

(Dow Jones Service.)

President Wilson has sent Maj. Gen. Crowder to Cuba to confer with President Monocal on the best way to remedy the Cuban situation. Intervention may follow.

The balance of trade in favor of the United States at the close of 1920 totalled $2,722,855,000.

The house is expected today to follow the example of the senate yesterday in passing over Wilson's veto the War Finance Corporation bill.

Nineteen Rochester clothing firms have resumed business today after being idle since early last fall. Eleven thousand empolyes are affected.

Thomson & McKinnon's stock letter today says: "The present recovery in the stock market should not be regarded as a bull market. What he have now is merely the natural recovery from undue depression and in a little while will establish itself at a fair level and await business developments. I would not attach undue importance to the enactment of the bill over the president's veto to revive the powers of the War Finance Corporation because if the administration is not in sympathy with the measure, inflation will be held in check."

PRINCE GEORGE

M. Rocamora, J. E. McGee and Chris Foster of Boston were at the Prince George early in the week en route to New York and Boston, having brought to different parts of Florida 22 cars of tourists, who will spend the winter in this state.

Mr. Rocamora is the president of the Automobile Green Book Tour company, and this was the first motoring party of the kind that ever made the trip from the northern states to Florida. There have been business trips, but this was purely for pleasure, and trips of this kind mean much to the advancement and progress of this and the states through which the motoring party passes.

Monday morning Mr. Rocamora received the information that another party, consisting of 50 cars, was about to leave Boston, largely as the result of the successful termination of this first trip. Many hundreds of postcards have carried the message back to the northern states telling of the beauties of the country, the matchless climate and the alluring sea.

To a representative of the News, Mr. Rocamora said:

"Before Florida can enjoy to the fullest the riches that the tourist can bring to her, proper consideration must be given to the roads. The main roads in this state are very good, but in the Carolinas and Georgia they are very bad. The people of those states should realize what it will mean to their development to have the constant passing back and forth, from the North to the South and back again thousands of automobiles. Nine-tenths of the automobiles of the country are in the northern states east of the Mississippi river, and Florida and not California is the natural dumping ground of the vast amount of money to be spent by people who every year seek a warm and healthful climate.

"Not only will Florida be benefited, but these motorists leave a golden path in the states through which they pass. I requested the members of my party to keep an account of their expenditures, and found that they spent every day of the trip from $700 to $7,000, and they would willingly have spent more money could they have found the necessary comforts for which to spend it. Everywhere we stopped at the best hotels, but the trouble wa sthat there were so few good ones in Georgia and the Carolinas. At Pinehurst we stopped at the Carolina, where we had fine accommodations.

"We secured one concession from many of the various county commissioners in these states, and that was an agreement to patrol all bridges in their county that were on the main highway, to be sure that they were in a safe condition."

In order for any motorist to join one of the Green Book Tours the owner must drive his own car. Mr. Rocamore says all hired chauffeurs are barred.

"The reason for this," said Mr. Rocamora, "is that we want to attract the people of moderate means. These are the people that mean most to any section. It is not the millionaires, stopping at the high priced hotels, who are patronizing the local stores and tending most to the prosperity of the towns and the community. Such people spend their money mostly at the hotels where they stop. We aim to interest the families who feel that they cannot afford to ship their cars, but would be willing to drive down here if assured that they could make the trip in comparative comfort and safety."

Mr. Rocamora said that two of the families who were members of his first tour had already purchased homes in Miami, and one family had bought a home in Stuart, and two men of the party had opened up a garage in Stuart.

"One thing," continued Mr. Rocamora, "that I very much dislike and that gives the strangers and prospective visitors a wrong impression of the state is the sending of postcards containing the pictures of snakes and alligators. Northern people get the idea from these that reptiles are the principal product, when in reality I have traveled in every county in the state, and during all the various trips have seen but one snake. Yet nine out of every ten postcards sent north will be of the picture of some reptile. This used to be done by people visiting California until those having the interest of the state most at heart began to educate the tourist away from this disagreeable subject, and instead to send cards showing the beautiful flowers, trees, water and land. This is what Florida tourists and friends should do, for really snakes and alligators are seldom seen hereabouts."

S. Banta Hilyard, son of Landlord and Mrs. W. W. Hilyard of the Prince George left Monday morning to return to Lawrence College, N. J., where he is a student.

Among the recent guests of the Prince George were:

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Moran of Tampa.

Mr. and Mrs. Hedley Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. George C. Hintzman of Toronto, Canada.

A. C. Walker and daughter and S. C. Young of Dunedin, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Woodard and family of Baltimore, Md.

HOTEL DESPLAND

Monday morning the portals of the Despland opened to friends old and new, and before the hour for the noonday luncheon arrived groups of men and women were enjoying the spacious verandas, and many words of praise were expressed by the guests when they viewed the big lobby and the many comforts that the management has installed for those who will spend any portion of the season there.

The first persons to register were Mrs. Mary J. Byars and Mrs. W. A. McNaughton of Muncie, Ind.

Mrs. G. H. Foote, Sr., of Daytona will spend the winter at the Despland, and among those early to register were Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Browning, and Miss Eleanor Browning of Narragansett Pier, R. I.

The afternoon and evening trains brought many more of the old time friends of this popular hotel, who will spend the winter season enjoying the many blessings afforded by Daytona.

PROFITS PLAN FAILS

EMPLOYES STRIKE WHEN EXPERIMENT REDUCES PAY.

(Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

NEWBURN, N. C., Jan. 4.—Employes of the Newburn Iron Works and Supply company are "out" again.

They struck when an income-sharing plan brought them less money than the reduced wage which they previously had refused to accept.

The management made the income-sharing agreement to show the men they were not trying to take advantage of them. They promised the men all profits in lieu of wages.

The first pay under the income-sharing plan was 20 per cent less than the employes had received before the first reduction of 10 per cent, was made.

The company claimed to have deducted only the actual operating and overhead expenses from revenue and divided the remainder among the employes.

The men declare they cannot work for less than 75 cents an hour.

PRINCESS ISSENA

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Wetmore of New York City arrived at the Princess Issena Saturday night. Mr. Wetmore is an architect of world-wide fame. Notable among the great buildings of which he has been the architect in charge are four of New York's greatest, biggest and newest hotels—the Biltmore, the Pennsylvania, the Commodore and the McAlpin. Mr. and Mrs. Wetmore both expressed themselves as delighted with the climate here and their surroundings at the Princess Issena. They are very charming people. They came from DeLand and left Sunday, going to St. Augustine, where they will spend a few days, after which they will return to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wiegand of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who are spending the season at the Princess Issena, had as their guest during the holiday vacation their son, E. H. Wiegand, who is a student at LaFayette college in Easton, Pa. On Friday they motored to St. Augustine and back, having a most pleasant trip, and on Sunday the son departed for Easton to resume his college duties.

Dr. and Mrs. George T. Doolittle, who have been spending several weeks at the Princess Issena, departed Monday morning for a motor trip through the state, expecting to return later to the Princess for the remainder of the winter. They are from Spokane, Wash.

Mrs. F. W. Higgins and her sister, Mrs. J. D. Cameron, who have been spending a few days at the Princess Issena, departed Sunday by motor for St. Augustine, where they will spend several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Bedford and Misses M. Corricke and B. Bauer of Daytona were dinner guests at the Princess Issena on Sunday, as were also Mr. and Mrs. Albert Diem of Daytona Beach.

Among the recent arrivals at the Princess Issena are the following:

Mr. and Mrs. E. Neurman of New York City.

Rev. Edwin Watson Rand of Princeton, N. J.

Robert R. Myer, J. E. Kavanaugh, Mr. and Mrs. George Harder and Miss Dolly Harder of Jacksonville.

F. Larkin of Flint, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Connor, Miss Baba Connor and Master Herbert Connor of New Smyrna, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Downs and children, Mary and Roger, of Saratoga, N. Y.

James F. Glenn of Tampa, Fla.

(Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

ARDMORE, Okla., Jan. 4.—"Uncle Ben" Harrison has quit guiding. Now he's manager for Clara Smith Hamon, charged with the killing of Jake L. Hamon, millionaire and national Republican committeeman.

"Mrs. Hamon, we'd like to have you go into the movies," says the film agent.

"See Uncle Ben," she replies.

"How about a vaudeville contract?" queries another.

"See Uncle Ben," she answers again.

Uncle Ben, as manager for his niece, will try to obtain for her one-fourth of Jake Hamon's $15,000,000. She was the wife of Hamon's nephew.

[...] men everywhere will be attract[ed] to us.

Co-operation Promised

[In] its distribution of powers the [con]stitution has divided our govern[men]t into three departments. As the [head] of the executive department I [wil]l not forget the intent of the [fram]ers who wrote and published that [tha]t instrument and who saw there[in e]ach of said departments free and [co-o]rdinate. A free untrammelled [and] independent judiciary must ever [rema]in the bulwark of individual lib[erty]. An enlightened and incorrupti[ble] legislature is the absolute essen[tial] in governmental progress. By [reas]on of supposed particular knowl[edge] of our laws and policies, ac[quir]ed through the administration and [execu]tion of them, it is made the duty [of t]he governor to co-operate with [the] legislature and assist, if possible, [in i]ts law making functions. I shall [pro]pose measures and policies, but [I wil]l not attempt to influence their [ado]ption through the improper use of [exec]utive power.

[W]e are to be congratulated in that [men] of experience, ability and patri[otic] consecration to the public good [hav]e been chosen as head of the con[stitu]tional department of our state [gove]rnment. For my part I am great[ly p]leased to be associated with them [in t]he work ahead of us and can but [feel] that the official family, which I [may] with propriety call the cabinet, [will], from the abundance of their ex[peri]ence contribute much towards the [succ]ess of our administration. The [occa]sion is quite opportune for me to [give] them assurance that executive [inte]rference will not be indulged. And [so] in keeping with the spirit of the [law] shall I concern myself with their [depa]rtmental affairs.

Other Officials Welcome

[I] wish to welcome, as co-partners, [the] men and women who have been [chos]en to fill their respective posi[tion]s incident to the administration [of t]he law. There should exist be[twee]n such officials and the chief [exec]utive a spirit of co-operation and [mut]ual helpfulness. Each of us may [well] feel honored that we have been [call]ed to service. That our fellows [hav]e such confidence in our fitness [that] they trust their business in our [han]ds. We can best repay them by a [con]scientious regard for the impor[tant] duties of our respective offices. [T]he laws of Florida must be en[forc]ed. Private property must be re[spec]ted. The rights of the individual [are] guarded in his legitimate aspira[tion]s, but at no time and under no [circ]umstances must the individual, [whe]ther in a personal or in a cor[pora]te capacity, be allowed to assert [him]self to the detriment of the supe[rior] rights of the public. The obliga[tion] of law enforcement is upon the [exec]utive department. I trust that [thos]e of us may be associated and will [som]ehow hear the call of the people [for] real service and for high ideals [in t]he administration of the law. [Perm]it me further to indulge in the [hop]e that it will not be necessary for [me] as chief executive to resort to [the] instrumentality of the constitu[tion], carrying the power of removal [of s]ubordinate officers, in order to [secu]re a proper execution of the laws. [The] incorporation of this high prero[gati]ve in the hands of the governor [con]templates, however, a necessity at [tim]es for its use. I would have ev[ery]one clearly understand that I [wil]l not hesitate to use it when there [app]ears wanton disregard of the oath [of o]ffice or gross incompetency in the [per]formance of official duties.

Better Care of State Institutions

[P]erhaps no greater service can be [per]formed than that of caring for our [stat]e institutions. Florida has not [bee]n backward in making provision [for] her unfortunate, who, by reason [of i]nfirmity of mind and body, have [bec]ome legitimate charges upon the [stat]e. She has also provided institu[tion]s corrective in character for [thos]e who have violated the laws, the [Stat]e Hospital for the Insane at Chat[taho]ochee and the Institution at [Gai]nesville for the epileptic and fee[ble] minded. Adequate provision for [thei]r maintenance and humane treat[men]t of the inmates must always be [obse]rved. The Industrial School for [boy]s at Marianna and the school of [like] character for girls at Ocala, [whil]e incarcerating wayward youths, [mus]t somehow lead them back to a [resp]ect for constituted authority and [obed]ience to law, and especially at [thes]e two institutions, the applica[tion] of effective methods and humane [trea]tment upon plastic minds will [sur]ely redeem and reform them. Our [Pri]son Farm at Raiford should be op[erat]ed only by that class of convicts [not] physically able to work upon the [pub]lic roads. I am in sympathy with [ever]y practicable humane method [use]d in handling the convicts of the [sta]te. He who would mistreat them, [or] who would lose sight of a possible [ref]ormation is utterly unfit to deal [wit]h the problem, but I am unwilling [for] an ultra-humanitarianism to dic[tat]e our policy to that extent that we [los]e sight of the economic and dis[ci]plinary questions involved in incar[cer]ation. I believe the Farm should [at] least be self sustaining and that [the] people should be relieved of taxes [for] its maintenance. The convicts [phy]sically fit must work. That was [the] judgment of the law and the sen[ten]ce of the court." Our system of [wor]king them upon the public roads [mu]st be maintained, and we will never, I trust, go back to the [pri]vate lease. As a prudent businessman would handle his own affairs so should we endeavor to manage the various state institutions. Remembering always that economy as well as efficiency must be kept constantly in mind.

National Resources Important

What should be our aim for the future? Speaking very generally because this is not the time or place for very specific treatment of existing problems, I would suggest that we begin to give care to the conservation of our natural resources. The timber supply upon which the state is so dependent must be inteligently conserved, not only conserved, but made sufficient for all times through reforestation. The fish and game of the state, while quite plentiful, must be preserved and propagated. This, to my mind will be most effectively done, when we have taken the matter of [enfo]rcement of our fish and game laws away from local influences. And inasmuch as those resources belong to all the people, there should accrue to the people a fair and reasonable revenue through the operation of the law. Conservation of resources is [not] enough. We must build up and develop. That great tract of fertile land known as the Everglades, is a potential empire within itself. The very important work of drainage and reclamation, undertaken years ago must go on. Utilizing the funds derived from the sale of public lands after paying to the school fund the amount required by the constitution, we will I trust continue the task until completed.

We must co-operate with the National government in the construction of roads and highways. We must watch the federal appropriation, always with an adequate state appropriation. A system of public roads connecting every county site in Florida should be laid out, and eventually I believe the state should actually take over, construct and maintain, without assistance from the counties, main thoroughfares connecting different sections of the state as distinguished from localities. We have dreamed and planned sufficiently long. Now has the time arrived for actual work and construction. It is our great problem today. I trust that the highway commission for the next four years may set themselves to the task of actually building roads.

Should Advertise Florida More Widely

Our aim of the future should be to give to the people of other states, some conception of the greatness, the attractiveness and beauty of Florida through truthful advertising. To keep in mind and foster every movement which will develop and benefit our agricultural, horticultural and live stock interests. The development of our marketing bureau, and the encouragement of co-operative movements to the end that the farmers and producers may receive the highest possible price for their products.

Our aim for the future should express itself, in improved methods in assessment and collection of revenue. An amendment to the constitution permitting the assessment at proper rates of the great class of intangible properties, a more equitable assessment of property as between the different countries; co-ordination of the various departments of the state, an elimination ofexpense incident to duplication of work, and finally the systematizing of our work so that many positions, now hardly necessary, may be abolished.

It is essentially the part of good government, insofar as laws and government regulations can do so, to create the highest possible type of citizenship, having due regard of the physical and spiritual welfare of all the people. The work of a well organized and efficient health department cannot be dispensed with. Improved sanitation and general health conditions result always in increased capacity for efficient labor, giving to every one a clearer conception of life's duties and the ability to perform them.

Will Receive Greater Attention

As a component part of this great republic, we must give serious consideration to educational problems if we would preserve for all time the democracy of our institutions. In a country whose government "derives its just powers from the consent of the governed," a country where the voice of the people directly, and thru chosen representatives, become the real law of the land, the necessity for an educated citizenship is more pronounced. I feel that we are to be congratulated upon an awakened interest in the great cause of popular education. Our national legislature is now considering the question of national aid to our public schools and acting on the same principle our state must eventually aid the counties in a similar manner. The day for provincialism is past, the time for larger conception of our obligations is upon us. The richer sections of our country have drawn their wealth, not only from their immediate surroundings, but from every state in the Union. The more efficient communities in Florida, having done the same thing, cannot say that the education of the people in less forward communities, is no concern of theirs. We have recognized this principle in the one mill constitutional school tax and should more adequately observe it in the future.

Let us adequately support our institutions of higher learning. I glory in the great work they are doing and am much impressed with the ever widening fields of activity which they are opening up to the lasting good of the state. I hope the time may soon come when we shall hear no more that inadequate facilities must be placed as an excuse for turning away from the doors so many of the youths of the state knocking for admission. Our real educational problem today, however, is with our rural schools. The overwhelming percentage of our future citizenship is now attending the country school. Trying as best they can to equip themselves for life's duties in a school whose term, in many counties, not more than four months a year, and oftimes presided over by poorly paid incompetent teachers. It is the rural school problem which is beginning to attract the attention of our national government and whatever plan may be undertaken, must find in our state a responsive partner in the great work.

Maintain Democratic Institutions

And finally we should aim to maintain our democratic institutions and a government that is jealous of all the rights of the state but at the same time is broad enough to realize that the federal constitution must also be given ready obedience and respect. A government that guarantees to every citizen, the weakest and the strongest alike, equal and exact justice before the law and that stands always ready to make good that guarantee a government, too that offers to every citizens, the weakest and the strongest alike a fair and impartial opportunity to exercise his inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, circumscribed only by a just consideration for the rights of his fellow men. A government that is strong enough, fearless and fair enough to make every citizen, the strongest and the weakest alike, obey the law and respect the constitution under which he lives. Without this obedience to law and order and this sort of respect for constituted authority, the fairest and strongest government that human intelligence could conceive and human energy direct must ultimately fall a prey to its own internal anarchistic tendencies.

Plea for Support

I have spoken perhaps, too much at length, but now that the obligation of great office is mine, I find much difficulty in giving full expression to my views on so many important questions within a given time. In trying to serve you for the next four years, I am sure that I shall make my mistakes. In making them, however, I am indulging in the hope that you will credit me with worthy motives and ascribe my errors to the frailty of human foresight and judgment so seriously afflicting us all. When right I court your commendation; when wrong, I pray your forgiveness and sympathetic counsel. Often when right, men will say I am wrong because the judgments of men are not always made with full possession of all facts and only too often the view fails to cover all of the ground. At this the beginning I have been made to feel supremely conscious that the people are with me now and as the days lengthen into the years, may come end so, my constant prayer to the Divine Ruler shall be to prepare me, so to lead me that they will be with me to the end.

WEALTHIEST INDIAN AND WIFE FIGHTING SEPARATION SUIT

(The Associated Press.)

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 3.—Jackson Barnett, aged 72, reputed oil millionaire and said to be the wealthiest Indian in America and his white wife, formerly Anna Laura Lowe, aged 30, have defeated a suit to have their marriage cancelled. By living amicably throughout a month's honeymoon in the Indian's humble domicile near Henryetta, Okla., they swept aside all evidence presented in three months of procedure in the Kansas Supreme court and suit to annul the union has been crossed off the calendar.

The suit was brought by Carl J. O'Hornett of Henryetta, Okla., the Indian's guardian, and Cato Sells, U. S. Commissioner of Indian Affairs. It set forth that Barnett was illiterate and that last May he and his bride eloped in an automobile furnished by the woman, crossed the Kansas line and were married in Arkansas City. In the original proceedings instituted in the Kansas Supreme court, Guardian O'Hornett petitioned that his aged ward be restored to him. It was charged that the bride had kidnapped her husband and that she was an adventuress.

Barnett, characteristic of his race, is a man of few words. He made it plain to the court, however, that he was well content.

"The Indian and his bride appear to have stood the test of matrimony," commented Judge A. M. Jackson, commissioner appointed by the Supreme court to hear the evidence in the case. "It was agreed that Barnett and his wife be permitted to go on a honeymoon of a month. The honeymoon over they still maintain they are satisfied, so after conference with all parties concerned it was agreed to recommend to the Supreme court that the case be dropped."

The Supreme court acted in accord with Judge Jackson's recommendations.

The Indian for many years lived on his land allotment near Henryetta, his horses and dogs his only companions. He made little use of his land, his cash allotment from the government being ample to purchase his few weekly needs.

But a few years ago Barnett's farm began to yield oil. Under his state and federal guardians, the Indian's wealth increased from the royalties until, according to O'Hornett, it now exceeds a million dollars.

MAY GERMANS STILL RMAIN IN FRANCE; 300 SERVING TIME

(International News Service)

PARIS, Jan. 4.—Although it is now more than two years since the armistice was signed there remain 300 German prisoners of war in France. They were soldiers when first interned but today are considered civilian prisoners for all are serving terms of imprisonment for various offenses not considered of a military nature. There are also some Turkish, Bavarian, Hungarian and even Polish prisoners left in France.

Some are serving terms of five years hard labor for theft, for falsifying statutes, assault, destruction of French property, for refusal to obey superiors.

Those serving time without hard labor are called upon to work for French interests and spend time good for receive pay averaging one franc a day. To this are added wine and tobacco allowances for good conduct. None of the prisoners complain of their lot for most of them are reputed dangerous criminals in their own countries. Nevertheless they are allowed to correspond with their home countries and to receive mail and packages of food or clothing. As a matter of fact French sentries are warned to show respect to their captives and are told that they will be punished if ever heard to call a prisoner a "Boche."

RATES AT CAPITAL HOTELS WILL NOW BE PROBED, REPORT

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Congress is hot on the trail of the Washington bonifaces.

Investigation of hotel rates is under way and there promises to be congressional action to regulate rates in the Capitol city during the period of Senator Harding's inauguration.

The ire of senators has been aroused by reports that these rates are going to dwarf all previous charges and may set new high-water marks for the nation's hostelries.

Senator Spencer of Missouri, has started the ball rolling. He innocently called one of the Capital's leading caravanaries on behalf of a friend and inquired what their rates would be for "two rooms and bath" for inauguration day.

He was promptly informed, so report has it, that any reservation of this sort would have to be made for seven days, and that the charge for the entire period would be $250. Whereupon there was a beetle atmosphere in the immediate vicinity of one senate committee room in the Capitol, and one Missourian decided that he would have "to be shown". He was joined in this resolve by several other senators who heard the story.

"If the Washington hotels are going to make any blanket rule that all reservations for the inauguration are to be for a period of seven days, when as a matter of fact the inaugural ceremonies are concluded in a single day, we might as well know it now and prepare accordingly," declared one senator. "I do not know what congress can do about it but I do know there is going to be a real indignation meeting of senators in the near future if this rule is ascertained to be the fact."

From other sources various rumors are afloat in the Capitol that there is to be an "orgy of profiteering" in the city in the inaugural period. Just what steps are to be taken to combat it have not been determined upon.

It was suggested by one senator that the inaugural committee might have some influence with local business men in persuading them to place their charges on a moderate basis. It is possible even that Senator Harding may be communicated with in regard to the matter, since the possibility that thousands of visitors to the city may receive such treatment from a small minority of unscrupulous inn and restaurant keepers as to constitute a "national disgrace" has not been overlooked.

EASTER INDEPENDENCE

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—America soon will be able to observe Easter independence of Japan and Bermuda, U. S. Department of Agriculture experts assert, announcing successful propagation of Easter lilies from the seed.

United States florists imported $2,000,000 worth of bulbs last year. Recent developments, experts said, show the lily is a hardy plant that under proper conditions thrives best in northern climates.

PREDICT MILD WINTER FROM POLLYWOG WIGGLES

(International News Service.)

KANE, Pa., Jan. 4.—The coming winter is going to be mild, according to the weatherwise of this section, which is over 1,200 feet above sea level and one of the coldest spots in the state when it is cold. These are the reasons for a mild winter.

Robins are still in the trees.

Woodcock are still found in the woods.

Pollywogs were found in a small stream in Russell City.

Fishing worms have been seen crawling over the snow-covered side walks.

Woodchucks (groundhogs) have not yet hibernated.

Blooming trailing arbutus has been found in Glade township.

RUSH IS NOW ON FOR AUTOMOBILE TAGS FOR NEW 1921 LICENSES

TALLAHASSEE, Jan. 4—The offices of the state comptroller, Hon. Ernest Amos, present a very busy atmosphere these days.

Each mail is heavy with applications for automobile license tags for the new year, and at the close of business Saturday afternoon, tags had been issued for something over 20,000 motor vehicles.

The "B" series of tags headed the list, 10,500 tags having been issued for this class of automobile. Under this head comes the Ford, the Chevrolet, the Oakland, the Overland and other like machines of less than 21 horsepower.

The class "C" tags so far number 4,283. This class includes such cars as the Dodge, the Buick, the Paige and other vehicles of not more than 27 horsepower.

The class "D" tags, to date number 1,520. This includes such cars as the Cadillac, and other cars not running over 32 horsepower.

Class "E" tags number 420 to date. All automobiles that run over 32 horsepower are included in the class among the most popular being the Packard.

Tags have been issued for 2,297 trucks, this number including the several classes.

The rush in this department is nearing its highest now, and it is anticipated that 50,000 applications will have been filed before the close of another week. The work is well systematized, and is handled most efficiently.

Requests come daily for certain numbers and all efforts are made to satisfy these requests. A man wants a number that is the same as his house number of his telephone number and many beg to be protected from having any number with "13" in it.

STATE CAPITOL OF WEST VIRGINIA IS BURNED TO GROND

(International News Service.)

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 4.—Although the state capitol is a mass of smouldering ruins today, the legislature will convene January 12, with the Senate in the supreme court of the capitol annex and the house in the state armory.

The capitol erected forty years ago, a brick affair, burned rapidly to yesterday, entailing a loss of a million and a half, which was practically covered by insurance.

Charles Walker in attempting to save records was killed by falling chimney. City Fireman Tilton was seriously injured. A few priceless state records were saved.

WEEP, YE WETS! WINE TASTERS IS WEARY OF TASK!

(Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

LONDON, Jan. 4—Life to William Pheysey has been one sparkle after another and a long series of sips—sips of real honest-to-goodness wine! Yet he's sick of his job!

Some time ago the government hired him as official liquor taster.

All he had to was taste bubble water and pass judgment on its quality or the reverse.

"But," says Pheysey, "it isn't as easy as it sounds—even to Americans.

"I've had to keep my palate fit, my nose clear and my eyes keen.

"Not such a cinch!

"It made me cut out smoking in the first place and then I had to quit drinking tea or anything outside business hours. Spoiled by tasting ability."

Pheysey says there is a considerable quantity of poor wine being shipped to England at the present time—and he has to sample it all, good or bad.

The government pays $7000 a year to its wine taster.

If Pheysey finally quits his position, it has been suggested that the job be placed on the auction block and sold to the highest bidding American.

The price, 'tis expected, might lift a large part of the national war debt!
